

Chapter 10: Substance Use and Addictive Disorders

Across

2. Reactions that consists of unpleasant and sometime dangerous symptoms such as cramps, anxiety attacks, sweating, nausea etc.
5. Patterns of maladaptive behaviors and reactions brought about by the repeated use of substances SUBSTANCE USE
8. Substances may cause temporary changes in behavior, emotion, or thought. This cluster of changes is called
9. When people develop ___ they need increasing doses of the substance to produce the desired effect
11. Produce delusions, hallucinations, and other sensory changes.

Down

1. produces sensory changes but it also has depressant and stimulants effects; considered to be apart from hallucinogens in DSM-5
3. A common used Depressant.
4. Slows the activity of the central nervous system. They reduce tension and inhibitors and may interfere with a person's judgement, motor activity, and concentration.
6. Substances that increase the activity of the central nervous system, resulting in increased blood pressure and heart rate.
7. 4 percent of adults and 3 to 10 percent of teenagers and college students suffer from
10. Examples of a stimulant.