

Chapter 6 BLaw Review

Across

5. Separate contract arising when the offeree gives the offeror something of value in return for a promise to leave an offer open.
6. Offeror promises something in return for the offeree's performance and indicates that this performance is the way acceptance must be made.
8. Requires that the terms in the acceptance must exactly match the terms contained in the offer.
9. Withdrawing an offer before it is accepted.

12. Party who makes an offer to form a contract.

13. Occurs when a party to whom an offer has been made agrees to the proposal.

14. Not really a contract but instead a fiction created by the law to allow the enforcement of a contractual remedy where justice alone warrants such a remedy.

Down

1. Offeror promises something in return for the offeree's performance and indicates that this performance is the way acceptance must be made.

2. Offeree's response to an offer which modifies it.

3. Offeree can accept offer by giving a promise to the offeror instead of performing the contracted-for act.

4. Agreement between two parties that creates an obligation.

7. Contractual proposal in writing by a merchant stating how long the offer is to stay open.

10. Proposal by an offeror to do something, provided the offeree does something in return.

11. Party to whom an offer is made.
