

Circadian Rhythm

Across

7. Rhythms that take longer than a day to complete
 8. The body's internal biological clock
 9. an example of an exogenous zeitgeber
 10. Cycles that occur once every 24 hours

Down

1. External environmental cues that affect the body's biological clock

2. The extent to which findings from a study can be applied to the population.
 3. Rhythms that occur many times a day
 4. an example of an endogenous pacemaker
 5. Key researcher into endogenous pacemakers
 6. rhythms that can take several months or even years to complete

Word Bank

melatonin

Siffre

ultradian

exogenous zeitgebers

light

circadian rhythm

endogenous pacemakers

generalisation

infradian

circannual