

Criminal and Forensic Psychology

Across

1. the strongest and most replicable predictor of offending is poor parental:
 5. carefully planned crime with little evidence
 8. how many universal emotions did Ekman identify?
 9. Freud sees criminality as a result of weak superego and ..
 11. Kohlberg would consider someone who obeys the law because it is the law to be in which stage of moral development
 13. An offence punishable by the State on behalf of the general public whose standards do not permit the offending behaviour

15. Personality theory shows strong links to criminality TRUE/FALSE

16. A type of learning theory that suggests we learn behaviours through modelling the action of others
 17. The psychopathic check list was created by:
 18. stored behavioral repertoire
 19. human beings are ..... because we seek pleasure, and avoid pain

Down

2. expressions that flash on the face for less than a second
 3. According to Trasler a strong ..... is developed through good parenting

4. one of the universal emotions

6. a part of the brain involved in fear, aggression and social interactions
 7. internalized representations of parental standards
 10. the principle of balance and fairness brought to bear in the process of evaluating human behaviour and interaction
 12. a type of conditioning that relies on actions and their consequences
 14. United States agency involved with development of profiling