

Database Vocab

Across

2. A program used to search a database for user-specified information
 5. A field contained in two or more database fields
 7. A collection of data that can sort and search using cretin algorithms
 9. A connection between two fields that is based on common data in the fields
 12. Offered a list of options in a Query to choose from
 14. A collection of info with related fields to specific information
 16. A collection of data that is similar to another set of data
 19. A language used to maintain cooperate databases
 20. A field in a related database that points to a key in the primary table

22. Used to conduct a database search
 23. A program that processes a users search in a database
 24. A program that is used to store, change, and view database information
 25. A relationship in which the record in one table cannot be the same as another
Down
 1. A search engine that scans web pages for tagged information
 3. What data values are stored in in a database. Ex. personnel information, sales figures, and costumer lists
 4. A relationship in which a record in one table can be the same in others
 6. When you specify what fields of data you want to receive in a Query
 8. A engine displaying a list of categories and subcategories that you can browse

10. Putting a keyword into a engine will search the web using the keywords that you entered
 11. A field with a certain value that identifies each record in a database
 13. using SQL to receive specific data in a database
 15. Posting a question to a data base to receive certain information
 17. A database table including foreign-key fields that lead to primary-key fields
 18. A category of information in a table (the columns)
 21. A element used in a webpage to embed information