

Name: _____

Date: _____

Direct and Indirect Realism

Across

5. The theory that claims objects and all their properties exist mind independently

10. Direct realism says there are how many parts to perception?

11. Russell uses the example of what to demonstrate the issue of perceptual variation?

12. Who claims mind dependent ideas cannot be like mind independent objects

15. This metaphorical barrier illustrates that in indirect realism we never experience the mind independent world

16. According to Locke what aspect of the nature of sense experience means the source of our sense data must be external to us?

17. The theory that claims objects and some of their properties exist mind independently

Down

1. A non-veridical perception where you perceive something to have a property it doesn't have in reality

2. What kind of properties do direct realists refer to to explain illusions and perceptual variations?

3. For indirect realism the immediate object of perception is what?

4. This philosopher develops the primary/secondary quality distinction

6. In direct realism sense data is caused by and _____ mind independent objects

7. The process by which we become aware of objects around us is called

8. A non-veridical perception where you perceive something that does not exist in reality

9. Russell, Locke and who defend indirect realism in the face of scepticism about the existence of mind independent objects?

13. Russell says the external world is the best what?

14. Light takes approximately how many minutes to travel to us from the sun?