

Electricity

Across

2. Pure heat rays are produced by:
 6. An amp is a unit of electric:
 8. What are the initials used to help you remember fire extinguisher use?
 11. The portion of the electromagnetic spectrum humans can see is known as:
 14. Before using ultraviolet light on a client, the skin or scalp should be:
 15. A volt is a unit of electric:
 16. 1,000 watts =
 17. What is a benefit of using infrared light during a facial?
 20. When using ultraviolet light for germicidal treatments, how far away from the area being treated should the lamp be placed?

Down

1. When a blow dryer is on and air begins to flow, you have an example of a(n):
 3. The three methods for using the high-frequency current are direct application, indirect application and:
 4. A measure of how much electrical energy is being used is known as a:
 5. What term describes using a negative pole or electrode to force negatively charged solutions into the skin without breaking the skin?
 7. The maximum amount of current used in a galvanic treatment should generally not exceed:
 9. Treatment with light rays or waves is called:
 10. Materials that best transport electricity are called:

12. Electric Muscle Stimulation (EMS), in which a salon professional usually wears a wrist band with a moistened electrode, is known as the:
 13. The wavelengths that produce the longest waves of the visible spectrum are:
 18. Volts and frequency needed and watts the appliance consumes are indicated on the:
 19. Most of the electricity you use daily consists of a flow of tiny, negatively charged particles called: