

Exogenous Zeitgeber

Across

- 3. Where is the SCN located in the brain
- 4. An external cue that synchronizes and organism's biological rhythm
- 5. Eye cells that are sensitive to dim lights
- 7. Also have a role as zeitgebers like social activities
- 9. Any biological process in the body that repeats itself over a period of approximately 24 hours

10. A protein which is sensitive to natural light

11. Having an external cause

Down

1. The light-sensitive layer of shell tissue of the eye

2. Sends the signals throughout the body in responses to dark and light

6. The most important zeitgeber for most animals

8. Responsible for colour vision and function in relatively