

Name: _____

Date: _____

FISH

Across

3. an animal that feeds on flesh and meat
6. vertebrate that lives in water and uses fins to move
8. tin, overlapping plates that cover the skin of a fish
13. the process in which eggs are fertilized inside the female's body and the young develops inside her body
14. tissue that is more flexible than bone
15. covers and protects the scales

Down

1. the process in which the eggs are fertilized outside the female's body and the male hovers close to the female and spreads a cloud of sperm cells
2. an organ that responds to a stimuli and helps find food and avoid predators
4. gives a fish power that comes from motions of its tail in coordination with the muscles
5. type of fish that is unlike others because they have no jaws and no scales
7. an appendage used to provide a large surface against the water and balance to stay upright in the water
9. type of fish that have jaws and scales, and skeletons made of cartilage
10. organ inside a bony fish and is an internal, gas-filled sac that helps the fish stay stable at different depths in the water
11. type of fish that have jaws, scales, a pocket on each side of the head that holds the gills, and a skeleton made of hard bones
12. a respiratory organ of a fish that has many blood vessels within them