

Figurative Language

Across

1. Words that are actually sounds
5. When something represents something else
8. The lesson or moral of a story
9. Referencing something well known to help make connections to the content
10. The primary character in the story

11. An educated guess
12. When the beginning sound of a word is repeated
13. A statement that means something completely different than what was actually said
14. An over-exaggeration

Down

2. Descriptive language that appeals to all five senses

3. Comparing two things using like or as
4. Giving non-human things human characteristics
6. The character that works against the main character of a story
7. Comparing two things not using like or as