

Name: _____

First Aid

Across

1. A substance used to counteract the poisonous effects of venom.

9. The most serious form of heat related illness; life threatening and develops when the body's cooling mechanisms are overwhelmed and body systems begin to fail.

10. A condition in which body tissues freeze; mostly common in the fingers, toes, ears, and nose.

Down

2. The state of the body being colder than the usual core temperature.

3. The physical and chemical processes of converting oxygen and food into energy within the body.

4. One of the ways the body loses or gains heat, occurs when the skin is in contact with something with a lower or higher temperature.

5. Substances that are electrically conductive in solution and are essential to the regulation of nerve and muscle function and fluid balance throughout the body.

6. One of the ways the body loses or gains heat, occurs when air moves over skin and carries away or increases heat.

7. One of the ways the body loses; heat radiates out of the body, especially from the head and neck.

8. An acute infectious disease caused by a bacterium that produces a powerful poison; can occur in punctured wounds.