

Name: _____

Date: _____

Food

Across

2. The liquid from fruit, but sometimes from vegetables, too. The most common variety comes from oranges

3. A product made from cream, commonly used to make pastries like cakes

6. A versatile product that comes in a shell and most commonly comes from chickens. Its yellow center is called a yolk

7. An orange root vegetable that rabbits and horses like to eat

11. A fruit that can be green, yellow, or red. Good in pies and cakes

13. The most common vegetable in the world. They can be red or white. Some people like them in their tortilla de patatas while others don't

15. A product made from milk, usually from cows, sheep, or goats. Parmesan is an example

16. Leaves used for salad. People sometimes put this with onions and tomatoes on their hamburgers

19. One of the most famous foods in the world, originally from Italy. A type of flat bread with toppings

20. Popular at baseball stadiums and as street food in the US, similar to sausages

21. A type of carbonated drink or beverage that is usually made from artificial ingredients

Down

1. It is frozen and sweet. Some of its popular flavors are chocolate, strawberry, and vanilla

4. A casual food that consists of a meat patty between two pieces of bread. Sometimes eaten with ketchup, mustard, lettuce, onions, tomatoes, pickles, etc.

5. They can be red or green, they grow on vines, and are used to make marmalade and wine

8. Its name in the singular is the same as its color. A fruit that is easy to carry in your backpack

9. A long, yellow fruit that grows on trees in tropical climates. The Canary Islands have delicious ones

10. They can be green or black, are very common near the Mediterranean, and are used to make oil

12. Small, round, individual portions of bread

14. A small, round, red fruit. Juicy in the summer, they can stain your hands

17. Round and usually red, they are treated as vegetables but are technically a fruit. Good for making salads and sauces

18. Thin slices of fried potatoes