

Forensic Paint Analysis

Across

2. the most common type of paint examined in crime labs

3. because most paint specimens don't have layers, a _____ must be done

6. there is _____ layers of automobile paint

11. when scraping paint samples from car, it must go to _____

13. a database that provides info on paints based on make, model, and year

16. half of what paint is composed of

17. can detect 15-20 elements in automobile paint

18. this primer is applied 2nd and is used to hide any imperfections

19. the actual color of the car

Down

1. this primer is applied directly on steel of car; ranges from black to grey

4. paint samples should be at least

5. half of what paint is composed of

7. paint evidence in mostly involved in _____

8. paint evidence is mostly involved in _____

9. the most distinctive forensic characteristic of paint

10. can distinguish one polymer from another

12. the most important instrument in paint analysis

14. final layer of automobile paint and is a unpigmented and adds gloss

15. instrument used to pick up paint samples