

Name: _____

Fun 9 Chemistry Crossword

Across

1. sugar dissolving in H₂O (water)
6. Burning wood and changing it into ashes and smoke.
11. Because a desk has more matter than a phone, it has a greater ____.
12. at 0 degrees Celsius, this is an ice cubes ____.
13. the acid from rain causes a bicycle's chain to rust.
14. The air around us is called oxygen, and oxygen is considered an ____.

15. at 100 degrees Celsius, this is a liquids ____.
16. Gasoline is highly ____.

Down

2. Since pizza has many different toppings and particles, it is not homogeneous, but is ____.
3. Freezing H₂O (water) turns into ice is a ____.
4. H₂O (water) has 2 part hydrogen and one part oxygen. Since there are two elements, it is a ____.

5. Measuring or calculating the density of a mixture is considered a ____ of matter.
7. Copper wire is only made of copper particles, so it is a ____.
8. being able to twist and aluminum foil means that it is ____.
9. Apple juice is not pure, but is known as a ____.
10. Since paper and pencils have atoms, they are examples of ____.