

Name: _____

Date: _____

Guess the lab Equipment

Across

3. Type of flasks that are used to measure precise amounts of liquids

8. Sounds like a kitchen tool, but it is used in science too. It is a tool used to scoop substances

9. A large container used to store or heat large amounts of liquids

10. A metallic "scissor like" object used to carry heated object

11. A type of measuring tool in which measure mass of an object

12. A type of knob that is used to suck liquid out to measure small amounts of liquids accurately

Down

1. A conical shaped lab equipment used to pour liquid from one place to another without a single spillage

2. A long cylindrical tube with marks on it to accurately measure liquids by using the meniscus

4. To "inject" substances into something

5. A tube like structure that is used to suck in liquid and to drop small amount of liquids into something

6. Used for evaporating liquids or for drying purposes

7. Use to heat things