

Healing 3 Chapter 23 Preventing Infection

Across

6. microorganisms that are usually found on the surface of skin, mucous membranes, and in the gastrointestinal tract

9. Practices that reduce or eliminate potential pathogens

12. acquired infection after being admitted into health care settings

13. Most important way to prevent infections

14. affected specific area for local infection

15. correct term for microbes that can resist the effects of antibiotics

17. disease caused by pathogens that spreads easily

18. process of destroying pathogens

Down

1. Someone who is a reservoir for microbes but who does not have the signs and symptoms of infection

2. guiding principle for cleaning and removing soiled linens and clothes

3. microbe that usually does not cause an infection

4. process of becoming unclean

5. Most common technique that should be practiced by ALL health care workers

7. work area free of all pathogens and non-pathogens

8. client at risk for infection

10. infection that involves the whole body known

11. biological or chemical agent that is dangerous to human that can be contaminated with bodily fluid

16. disease resulting from the invasion and growth of pathogens in the body