

Name: _____

Hospital Week Crossword

Across

2. Much like bats and whales, this department uses echolocation to help diagnosis disease.
8. What do doctors look at through an ophthalmoscope?
9. In 1985, Wilhelm Roentgen discovered these when he observed a fluorescent glow of crystals on a table near his cathode tube.
10. This department is crucial to receiving reimbursement for medical procedures performed by the hospital
11. Coca-cola, Dr. Pepper, and Vernors were all created by someone with this title.
12. In a disaster, the ED might do this to sort patients for treatment.

13. How many times a day must you take medication if your prescription reads "q.i.d."?

15. This cleaning material is used to disinfect rooms and equipment for a patient diagnosed with C. Diff.

16. This person is often regarded as the father of medicine.

17. This profession might analyze their patients' fitness in order to help them improve their health or maintain good health.

18. IT often tries to warn against these types of emails.

19. William T. G. Morton became the first person to use this at what became known as "The Ether Dome" in 1846.

20. Blood, bodily fluids, and used needles are all types of these.

Down

1. What does "CPR" stand for in medical emergencies?

3. Device composed of an inflatable cuff and bulb often used by nurses to obtain a vital measurement.

4. You can see these people roaming the halls in white coats carrying tourniquets and vials.

5. When this profession first came into use in World War I, they were originally known as "reconstruction aids".

6. This department orders and receives supplies for the hospitals' daily functions.

7. This device is often seen hanging on the necks of doctors and nurses.

14. This person might help you decide what types of food to eat in order to treat or prevent chronic conditions.