

Name: _____

Date: _____

IYAOYAS

Across

- 3. What term applies when the functioning time of a fuze is .0003 seconds or less
- 7. The action that causes a fuze to detonate before impact when any substantial object is detected at a predetermined distance from the fuze
- 8. Fuzes that acts like the hammerstiking a primer in a handgun or rifle
- 11. The amount of time or vane revolutions needed for the firing train to be aligned after the bomb is released

- 13. the distance along the trajectory that a bomb travels from the releasing aircraft in an unarmed condition
 - 14. what are the two types of fuzes
 - 15. FMU-143/B tail fuze is used for
- ### Down
- 1. Functioning delay of an electrical fuze is initiated by what means
 - 2. The Time Required for a fuze to detonate after impact or preset time.
 - 4. the mk 376 electrical fuze provides all electric capability for what weapons

- 5. Fuze that does NOT have the elements of its firing train in the proper position for firing until the fuze is fully armed is known as what type of fuze
- 6. arming delay times for the mk376 fuze is automatically selected by that means
- 9. Functioning time is .0003 to .0005 seconds
- 10. What adapter booster is used with the thermally protected bombs
- 12. What term applies when the functioning time of a fuze is longer than .0005 seconds