

Language Arts

Across

2. A research tool used to organize information on a weblike diagram.

4. Term used to categorize stories such as folklore, fantasies, and realism.

11. Activities that provide meaningful ways for students to explore meanings of words.

12. Term used when students react a story, such as a play or skit whereas students assume a character and communicates the plot, mood and theme.

13. Term for accounts of a person's life written by someone else such as stories featuring well-known people.

14. Term used for the backdrop of a story such as the location, weather, time period, or time of day.

15. A research tool used to record information, reflect on learning, and discover gaps in knowledge.

Down

1. A term used when one reads for gaining information.

3. Term for life stories written by the featured person. For example, a book about yourself written by you.

5. Term used when two students read or reread a selection together.

6. A term used when one reads for appreciation and enjoyment.

7. The sequence of events involving characters in conflict situations.

8. Term used to describe a stories particular viewpoint, such as first-person, omniscient, limited omniscient, and objective.

9. Term used when a teacher reads aloud to students.

10. Term for people or personified animals in the story, the most important or significant element in the story.