

Literary Terms

Across

4. a statement or proposition that seems self-contradictory or absurd but in reality expresses a possible truth

7. An event created in the to mirror or suggest what will happen later in the story

8. Event that allows the following events to lead to the climax, event that begins the conflict in the story.

12. a state of mental indecision

14. When nature mirrors the mood of the story

16. Series of events leading to the Climax

18. Adversary of the hero

19. Giving inanimate things human qualities

20. Great exaggeration, but not literal

Down

1. Statement that may seem contradictory, has a valid meaning

2. Tool used by the author to provide information about the characters

3. Authors attitude towards elements in the story

5. a figure of speech in which two unlike things are explicitly compared

6. Usually event that ends the story, may answer any questions the reader may have to end the story

9. Play on words

10. Central idea or message being communicated within the story

11. Series of events leading toward the final conclusion

13. Most intense part of the story

15. When a memory from before the time in which the story is occurring is explained.

17. Physical surroundings of a story