

Literature searches and reviews

Across

2. In summarising the literature review, it is important to note the ... in the research literature that suggest the need for further research

4. A very important bibliographic database for nurses

8. Literature searches can be done on one's own or with the assistance of a

11. it is essential to accurately ... all sources used in a literature review

12. when doing a database search, it is common to start with

13. A plan for finding resources that will answer your research question is a search...

16. A...is a reference to the source of information used in your research

17. Description or summary by somebody other than the original researcher, e.g. a review article are referred to as.....sources

18. is a process where fellow experts look over an article before it is published

19. In most databases, there are "wildcard codes" that can be used to extend a search to include all forms of truncated root

21. A ... source is a research report by the original researchers of a study

23.literature is published informally or non-commercially, or remains unpublished.

24. reviews of literature are organised around a topic or issue,

25. Literature reviews should have three main sections. The first is an....

Down

1. when doing a literature review it is important to read the ... of an article before deciding on its usefulness

3. A literature review is a survey of ... sources that provides an overview of a particular topic

5. This database is freely accessible

6. A comprehensive literature review usually involves an..... of a large body of research on a particular research question

7. a review is useful for gathering information about the topic and synthesising and summarising it

9. The words you type into a search box that represent what you want to find

10. A careful appraisal of the strengths and weaknesses of a study is a

14. A common abbreviation for "literature"

15. A boolean operator

20. This review uses a rigorous well defined approach to reviewing the literature in a specific subject area

22. It is preferable for reviewers to.... paraphrase and avoid ... from the literature