

Lymphatic & Immune System

Across

1. pertaining to an immune response to a person's own tissue

5. a hypersensitive reaction to common, often intrinsically harmless substance

7. a phagocytic cell derived from a monocyte

9. tissues located in the throat that filter inhaled or swallowed materials

11. the state or condition of being resistant to invading

13. a substance developed within the immune system and designed to identify and destroy foreign substances

14. capable of destroying infected cells throughout the body

15. a natural glycoprotein formed by cells exposed to a virus or another foreign particle of nucleic acid

Down

2. a process by which resistance to an infectious disease is included

3. a hypersensitive reaction to common, often intrinsically harmless substance

4. an overreaction to a foreign material within the body

6. a disease-causing agent

8. a preparation of material derived from microorganisms administered to confer immunity to one more infectious diseases

10. a substance containing antibodies directed against a particular disease or poison

12. a clear fluid of slightly yellowish color that is produced by many organs of the body