Metaphysics of Mind

Across

4. The monist view of everything being reducible to physical things
7. Property Dualist idea that states that physicalism fails as there is more to know than physical facts
8. The argument which states that the extension and thought of the mind and body mean they are distinct things
9. The direction of a particular mental state
10. A counter to the divisibility argument which suggests that one cannot claim that "X is not Z" based on the fact that "I know who X is" and "I do not know who Y is"

Down

1. The observation of one's own mental processes
2. The idea that mental events cannot cause physical events
3. Who proposed the zombie argument?
5. The name given to the ideas that deny dualism of any kind
6. The theory that mental properties rely on the physical brain
