

Motivation in Learning and Teaching

Across

5. Which approach to motivation is used to increase the individual's own competence, self-esteem, autonomy, and self-actualization?
 8. What component of task value values the enjoyment of doing a task?
 9. What does the G in TARGET stand for?
 10. Which type of motivation does not incentives or rewards?

Down

1. Which goal structure is it when students believe they will reach their goal if and only if other students do not reach the goal?

2. _____ theories of motivation describe how the individual's explanations, justifications, and excuses influence motivation.
 3. Young people tend to have an exclusively _____ view of ability .
 4. Maslow is responsible for the _____ of needs theory.
 6. Which type of goal does someone have when they are not worried about how their performance is being measured?
 7. An individual's desire to have wish's, rather than external rewards or pressures, determine their actions is the need for _____.