

OUTDOOR EDUCATION

Across

- 2. By using the force of the water, a kayaker sinks the tail of a kayak making a fast turn or pivot vertically
- 6. The home river for a TPP Outdoor Ed student
- 11. Super helpful acronym drilled into students learning how to enter/exit an eddy in a kayak
- 13. Strange arm signal or movement made by kayakers under 30, means "this is the sh*t"
- 15. Acronym for the polytech with the best Outdoor Education Tutors ever
- 16. Thick dark beer, or very difficult whitewater
- 18. An edge held only by the fingertips
- 19. Bread filled up with yummy stuff, which gets wet and squashed when it is yours, and looks great if it's someone else's. Also a way to right an upturned kayak

- 20. The recirculation of water behind rocks, walls, or other features
- 21. Character building exercise of taking one's boat for a walk to avoid a nasty rapid. Can take 5 minutes or 12 hours depending on your ability
- 23. Neoprene onesie that is difficult to remove when one is in desperate need to pee
- Down
- 1. Method of landing a kayak flat after clearing an epic or nasty drop
- 3. Used to indicate that something is exceptionally solid. Also must be said whilst slapping a kayaking before driving away with them on your roof racks
- 4. To descend by sliding down a rope (the best part of the climb)
- 5. The largest buoyancy aid on the river
- 7. Navigation tool that at least one person forgets every tramp

- 8. Off balance climbing, which causes the climber to swing out from the rock
- 9. Information about a climb or route given, that can range from moves, sequences, to tips about the gear needed
- 10. The time you spend stuck in or under a hydraulic feature
- 12. Large, cold hill to walk up with spikes attached to one's tramping boots
- 14. Oddly shaped plastic object you sit in to navigate through rapids
- 17. The critical, crucial, most important bit of a rapid, move, or problem
- 22. The fabric room an outdoor ed student spends more time sleeping in than their own bed