

Research Methods

Across

4. Author of the electric shock obedience study
 5. Making things similar, a key part of quantitative research approaches
 9. A type of interview, no prescribed list of questions
 13. It contradicts positivism
 15. Formulated by Bulmer (1969), one overarching research theory
 16. Referring to the accuracy and consistency of a measure
 19. If I recruit you, you recruit the next participant, they recruit the next and so on
 21. One of the two major research strategies

22. The instrument of a survey
 23. In an experimental method, the thing you manipulate

Down

1. A testable predictive statement
 2. Part of the ethical requirements of research....given to participants before a study
 3. One of the four requirements of a document used as data
 6. Analysis of symbols
 7. If the proportion of each subgroup of a target population is represented in the sample, you will have used this recruitment method
 8. A standardised list of behaviours and definitions

10. A type of validity
 11. I start with a theory and I specifically test that theory and then revise the theory, a _____ approach
 12. All concepts originate in experience, a research theory
 14. Content analysis process
 17. You are so subjective, not!
 18. A type of question style, not closed
 20. The alternative to the alternative hypothesis