

Sociology Chapter 13

Across

- 4. political decisions made by compromise and bargaining
- 6. authority in which the legitimacy of a leader is rooted in custom
- 7. process in which companies reduce their workforces
- 10. use of physical force or threats to exert control
- 11. power accepted as legitimate by those subject to it
- 12. democracy in which elected officials are responsible for fulfilling the wishes of the majority of its citizens

- 14. a ruler with absolute power attempts to control all aspects of a society
 - 15. companies that control a particular market
 - 16. heads of corporations sit on the boards of one another's boards
- Down
- 1. set of functions that concern the production and distribution of goods and services
 - 2. economic system founded on idea that the means of production should be controlled by the people (state)

- 3. government with political and non political rulers with some degree of individuality
- 5. networks of unrelated businesses operating under a single corporate umbrella
- 8. authority which arises from a leader's personal characteristics
- 9. an economic system founded on ownership of private property and right of individuals to profit from their labor
- 13. society controlled from the top by a few people