Down

1. An ancient heretical sect that believed, among other things, that salvation came from obtaining secret experiential knowledge.

2. The diocese of the Pope, Bishop of Rome; also, a term used to refer to the central administration of the worldwide Catholic Church.

3. A heresy, Jesus was two persons united in one nature rather than one Person with both a divine nature and a human nature. He opposed the title Theotokos (Bearer of God) for Mary, teaching that Mary was the Mother of Christ, but not of God.

4. The definitive Revelation of Christ given to the Apostles and, through them, to the entire Church as Sacred Scripture and Sacred Tradition; the heritage of faith handed on in the Church from the time of the Apostles

6. A heresy arising in the fifth century that claimed there is only one nature in the Person of Christ, his human nature having been incorporated into his divine nature.
