

Words to Know

Across

2. The omission of conjunctions
 4. The repetition of a word or phrase at the end of several clauses contrast with anaphora
 8. Expressing a rigid opinion based on unproved or improvable principles
 11. A confused, comically inaccurate use of a long word or words
 12. Supporting a claim with a reason that is really a restatement of the claim in different words Begging the
 15. The rising and falling rhythm of speech especially in free verse or prose
 17. A rhetorical term for a succession of clauses of approximately equal length and corresponding structure
 19. Something or someone that is not in its correct historical or chronological time

20. A digression in the form of an address to someone not present or to a personified object or idea
 21. A rhetorical term for the repetition of the last word of one line or clause to begin the next
 22. A riddle whose answer is or involves a pun
 23. Similar to truth; the quality of realism in a work that persuades the reader that they are getting a vision of life as it is

Down

1. A verbally abusive attack
 3. The use of a word to modify or govern two or more words when it is appropriate to only one of them
 5. A saying or proverb embodying a piece of common wisdom based on experience

6. The use of an unnecessarily large number of words or indirect means of expression
 7. Understatement, an affirmative is expressed by the negative of its contrary
 9. Rhetoric reversal of the order of words in the second of two parallel phrases
 10. A figure of speech in which a part is used to represent the whole
 13. A figure of speech in which one word or phrase is substituted for another with which it is closely associated
 14. Pompous; grandiloquent
 16. Repetition of a word or phrase at the beginning of successive clauses
 18. The use of several conjunctions in close succession esp where some might be omitted