

Writing

Across

6. Part of a sentence containing a verb and states something about the subject

10. a word used to connect clauses or sentences or to coordinate words in the same clause (e.g., and, but, if).

11. A group of words put together, but do not form a complete thought

12. A describing word

13. A word governing, and usually preceding, a noun or pronoun and expressing a relation to another word in the clause

14. Last sentence of an introduction

15. a word that can function by itself as a noun phrase and that refers either to the participants in the discourse (e.g., I, you) or to someone or something mentioned elsewhere in the discourse (e.g., she, it, this)

16. Contains a subject, predicate, and is a complete thought

Down

1. The part of a sentence that describes who or what it is about

2. One form of verbs that is used to make factual statements

3. An action word

4. A type of essay in which you attempt to get the reader to agree with your point of view

5. units of grammar that contain at least one predicate (verb) and a subject

7. Is the name for the grammar used when comparing two things

8. is two words made shorter by placing an apostrophe where letters have been omitted (e.g: We're)

9. the marks, such as period, comma, and parentheses, used in writing to separate sentences and their elements and to clarify meaning.