

competency 8

1. correctness
  2. skinner, uses positive and negative stimulus to get a particular outcome
  3. removing a stimulus in reaction to a behavior to increase the likelihood of a behavior
  4. an elementary teacher gives students roles that rotate daily or weekly
  5. the opposite of non-interventionists. they think by providing external stimulation, they can alter behavior and therefore control the individuals actions
  6. positive stimulus is paired with a neutral stimulus and repeated then the positive stimulus is removed and the neutral stimulus has the same effect (Pavlov's Dog)
  7. removing a stimulus in reaction to a behavior
  8. presenting a stimulus in reaction to behavior
  9. providing positive responses to positive behaviors in an effort to increase the frequency
  10. presenting a stimulus in reaction to a behavior to increase the behavior
  11. people must pass through eight life stage in order to fulfill their own potential.
- A. positive reinforcement
  - B. reinforcement
  - C. positive punishment
  - D. interventionists
  - E. operant conditioning
  - F. accuracy
  - G. standardized roles
  - H. stage of development
  - I. negative punishment
  - J. negative reinforcement
  - K. classical conditioning